Longitude

"no fixed natural point"

Silly lines. Sharp edges.
Slippery slopes.
Men's whim. Traffic lights.

"locatable in language"

Longitude is an exploration of diagrammatic texts and lines as a visual language, referencing the acts of registering, holding and transmitting information. The marks inhabit the gallery space, taking part in its architecture while gesturing at various nodes in history, from the politics of mapping to cave wall paintings.

Artwork details:

Longitude, 2026, Site-specific installation with collage pieces (masking tape, washi tape, insulation tape, paper, acrylic, ink, graphite, found printed images)

Ella Pininta is an emerging artist based in Naarm/Melbourne. She also works as a graphic designer. Ella grew up in Indonesia before migrating to Australia.

Ella sees her practice as a permission to wander by creating openings for poetic shifts, often through the act of assembling, re-re-registering and annotating. A version of this is explored in how her work tends to inhabit an existing format, layering concepts of language, place and body. Work is transposed through different contexts, responding to specific sites and narratives to engage with the felt experience.
